SOLDIERS SENT TO KILL.

One Man Mortally Wounded in the Brooklyn Strike.

HE WAS AN INNOCENT SPECTATOR.

A Street Car Official Admits That the Companies Have Been Unable to Employ Sufficient Men to Run the Cars—Strikers Have the Sympathy of the Public.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23.—The first fatality of the great strike took place about 11 o'clock last night when in an encounter with a car at Bedford avenue and Fulton street the section of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company's valley was shot by the militia. Henry Ahrens of 70 York street was fatally shot, a bullet going clear through at his mouth and passing through his head. Another man was also shot in the leg. The shooting had the instant effect of dispersing the mob.

The quiet which prevailed in the vicinity of the engagement was suddenly broken by the shooting of a dozen boys, who made a playful attempt to break through the picket lines. The firing continued a moment or two long. It was followed by the sharp report of rifles. Most of the shots seemed to have gone high. A few shots, however, went to close, and Henry Ahrens was pierced through the lower part. He had just come out of a corner saloon, where he had been drinking with some friends. Ahrens stepped back in the protection of the door when he heard the shooting, but he was too late. The ball just grazed the brim of his friend's hat and hit Ahrens full in the face. He was taken to a hospital, and will probably die.

Richard Mahill, a car starter, was shot through both arms.

The ninth day of the strike closed without bringing material change in the situation. It was a day of alarming rumors, which to a marvel proved to have slight or no foundation. There were between daybreak and nightfall numerous brushes between the police and militia on one side and the strikers or headstrong law defying sympathizers with their cause on the other. The linemen's strike, which was to have tied up the trolley lines more effectually than has been done by the strike of motormen, conductors and other employes, was called off before it was fairly on, and later in the day the mandate of Master Workman Connolly was promulgated, calling upon the linemen to abandon their situations this morning. What influenced the strike manager to call the linemen's strike off thus quickly and then to order it on again cannot now be told. The reason assigned for the latter act is palpably but a pretext.

The operating of the street railway lines has not been wholly satisfactory to the city and military authorities, nor has it in even a comparative degree met the requirements of the public. The admission was made by the superintendent of the lines, who was asked by the authorities to explain why, with all the protection that had been accorded, so few cars had been run, that the company was crippled by the lack of men capable of managing a car.

The inference from this admission might be that the companies are waiting until experienced men can be brought from other cities or green hands schooled to their duties.

There is a strong feeling in official circles that the street railway corporations have not kept faith, for they have alleged from the first that if guaranteed protection they could operate all the cars upon all their lines. On the other hand the managers of trolley lines may allege with all fairness that the protection they have received is far from complete. It has not prevented the frequent cutting of wires or the stoning of cars as they were making their run.

And right here the public might put in a word to the effect that it is not conducive to mental tranquility on the part of those compelled to ride in trolley cars to reflect that between noon and 8 o'clock yesterday there were no less than seven collisions of cars with vehicles of one kind or another.

Adjutant McAlpin, who came here yesterday as the military and personal representative of Governor Morton, had a conference late in the afternoon with Mayor Schieren, Police Commissioner Welles and Corporation Counsel McLaughlin. The adjutant general offered to call out the Third brigade of the National Guard of New York to aid in the restoration of order. He was advised by the mayor that at present there is no occasion for calling out more troops. General McAlpin promised to have the Third brigade ready to come to Brooklyn on an hours notice should its presence here be required.

Master Workman Connolly ordered the linemen on strike last night. He says that this action was necessitated by the action of the soldiers at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when a company of the Seventh regiment surrounded the hall at the corner of Myrtle avenue and Palmetto street. A squad entered the hall and seized the books and papers of the local assembly, which has its headquarters there. Mr. Connelly says that the troops were withdrawn and the police put in charge of the hall. Master Workman Connelly says this is the reason for the strike of the linemen. Mr. Connelly says that he was the one who sent the linemen back yesterday after they had struck. The police and troops deny the statement that they entered the strikers' hall.

Major Abrams said: "I most emphatically deny that any soldier entered Odd Fellows' Hall. As a matter of precaution, I ordered the doors locked before the first car started and kept them locked until the last car returned and was secure in the depot. No papers, books or any other property was touched by my men, and as soon as the pickets were withdrawn the men who had been boxed up were again at liberty to go in or out as they pleased. There is positively no foundation whatever for the sensational story given publicity by Mr. Connelly.

Many wires were cut on Monday night, and the work of the linemen was not finished until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The construction wagon, labelled on both sides "K of L," reached the Ridgewood depot a few moments after, so that at 3.10 p. m. "Assembly" was sounded and the three companies of the Seventh regiment, B, D and G, under command of Major Abrams, marched out and occupied all the streets branching out from the junction of Myrtle avenue, Wyckoff avenue and Palmetto street.

As the first company marched out a truck laden with new men, accompanied by four officers, dashed up, and as soon as it was unloaded the driver was taken into custody for causing a fatal accident on Gates avenue near Bushwick avenue. To avoid any possible attack he had driven at a furious pace, and overtaking a light wagon at the place stated dashed into it, throwing the solitary occupant into the street and fracturing his skull. The injured man was taken to St. John's hospital and the driver of the truck to the police station.

There were many rumors flying around Ridgewood all day but no really exciting incidents until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when cars were started on the Gates avenue line of the Brooklyn City railroad. Two shots were fired, one by a policeman and another by a national guardsman to enforce the order issued by the police authorities to keep every window closed along the line of the road. But one missile was thrown at the first car, a piece of fire brick from the inside of a stove, which smashed a window, but did not injure any occupants of the car.

While car No. 1,595 was crossing Central avenue a woman stopped with a tin dish in her hand, from which she threw something into the air. It was cayenne pepper, and the wind blew it in the faces of the motorman and policeman. They were nearly blinded, but did not lessen their speed, and when they reached the depot were attended to by the surgeon of the Seventh regiment.

A squad of five mounted police galloped down Broadway on the sidewalk at 10 o'clock last night. The patrol wagon, filled with policemen under command of Captain Dunn, of the Fourteenth precinct, turned into Broadway from Halsey street. Innocent citizens passing along the sidewalk were driven into the street. No crowd had collected and the raid of the mounted police seemed uncalled for. Fortunately the clatter of horses' hoofs gave warning in time for people to rush to the middle of the street.

An enthusiastic meeting of strikers and their sympathizers was held last night at Labor Lyceum, in Willoughby avenue. The strikers, with their families and friends, were out in full force. As each speaker came forward he was received with wild applause. Mr. J. DeLong, a business man, claimed that every man, woman and child in Brooklyn was in sympathy with the strikers. On a motion of the chairman, M. J. Bowen, a resolution was passed requesting the mayor to sign the recent resolution of the board of aldermen condemning the trolley companies.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

Senators Criticize the Hawaiian Policy of the Administration.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The policy of the administration as to Hawaii was again the subject of sharp attack and defense in the senate yesterday. The personal element in the controversy drew large crowds to the galleries, which at times overflowed into the outer corridors. Mr. Gray (Dem.) and Mr. George (Dem.) justified the policy of the administration, and Mr. Lodge (Mass.) and Mr. Hanley (Conn.) made the speeches on the other side. The debate was still in progress when the morning hour expired and the Nicaragua canal bill was taken up, and Mr. Tupie (Ind.) spoke against the measure.

The Indian appropriation bill, which has been under consideration for five days in the house, was finally passed yesterday. It carried $6,494,520 when reported, but as passed the total was considerably augmented, one amendment alone (to pay the first installment for the purchase of the Cherokee outlet) carrying $1,600,000. Several unimportant amendments were added to the bill. Before the Indian bill was taken up bills were passed to create a national military park at Gettysburg, Pa.; to grant an American register to the barkentine James H. Hamilton, and to authorize the appointment of naval cadets from congressional districts from which actual residents were not appointed.

A Bunco Sharp Buncoed.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 23.—A man having the appearance of a countryman and giving his name as John Sheffield, of Manchester, N. Y., entered police headquarters and said he had just got the best of a green goods man at Taylor's hotel. The green goods man, he said, took a roll of bills from the inside pocket of his overcoat and threw it on the bed saying: "That is the kind of stuff we are dealing in." Sheffield examined the money and saw it was genuine. He then struck the green goods man with a black jack, knocking him down. He grabbed the money from the bed and ran down stairs. Chief Murray told Sheffield that he would have to hold him on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The chief took possession of the roll of bills, which amounted to $1,650.

Ex-Governor Pattison Accepts.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—In accepting the Democratic nomination for mayor of Philadelphia ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison calls attention to the fact that the "entire expenses of the state of Pennsylvania aggregate $ 2,000,000 annually, while the expenses of this city for 1894 were $32,190,000, an average of $15 for each voter, for which no adequate return has been received." He pledges himself if elected to oppose the granting of municipal privileges and franchises, and demand a strict accounting from all departments.

Deserted the Knights of Labor.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 23.—District Assembly No. 16 of the Knights of Labor has decided to withdraw from the general assembly, and will hereafter continue as an independent labor organization. The assembly was organized by T. V. Powderly, and since his defeat as master workman by Mr. Sovereign the members of the assembly have been more or less dissatisfied.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

Over Eight Hundred Proposed New Laws Already Introduced.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—Yesterday was a busy day in the legislature. In both branches much routine business of general interest was transacted. New bills continue to pour in, and it is thought that upwards of 800 have already found their way into the two bodies. Many of these have been brought out of committee and read the first time; others have passed finally in one branch or the other, and will soon be turned over to the governor for his action. The nominations of Alexander Port, of Huntingdon, and ex-Judge Augustus S. Lyons, of Hollidaysburg, as managers of the Huntingdon reformatory were confirmed by the senate.

Bills were put through the house finally providing for additional law judges in Washington and Westmoreland counties; providing for biennial organization of councils in second class cities; requiring actions together by husband and wife for injury to the person wrongfully inflicted upon the wife.

The Chauncey bill, for the relief of firemen disabled in the performance of their duties and for the families of firemen killed in the service, was read the first time. The bill provides that 1 per cent of the tax paid by foreign fire insurance companies shall be paid by the state treasurer to regularly incorporated firemen's relief associations which are placed under the supervision of the insurance commissioner, to whom they must make report annually.

Among the new bills introduced were: To license pool rooms in cities; amending the marriage license act by providing that persons must be married in the county in which the license is issued; increasing the license fee to $1,000 for bottlers, brewers, etc.

In the senate the bill to create a banking department, enlarging the scope of the existing system and fixing the annual salary of the commissioner to be appointed under the act at $6,000, passed finally. Among the bills introduced were: For the annexation of cities of the second class and cities, boroughs and townships, to cities of the second class; authorizing school boards to direct instruction to be given by means of pictorially illustrated works in any branches of study.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

The Anti-Gambling Amendment Will be Submitted to Popular Vote.

TRENTON, Jan. 23.—Among the nominations sent to the senate yesterday by Governor Werts were the following: For justice of the supreme court, Charles S. Garrison of Camden (reappointed); for lay judge of the court of errors and appeals, Robert S. Green of Union (reappointed); for state school superintendent, Addison B. Poland (reappointed). The vote of the two houses for United States senator was: William J. Sewell, 61; Allan McDermott, 11; Franklin Murphy, 5.

The house passed Assemblyman Cadwalader's concurrent resolution providing for the submission to the people of the state of an amendment to the constitution, prohibiting race track and other gambling. There was not a single vote in the negative. The house also passed Assemblyman Gruber's bill prohibiting the employment on public works of any person who is not a native or naturalized citizen, or who has not declared his intention to become a citizen. Other bills passed were: Preventing a common informer bringing suit against corporations for failure to file their list of officers with the secretary of state; restoring to citizenship George Cox, of Paterson, who had been convicted of bribery in paying money to get a police appointment.

Burned to Ashes in a Railroad Wreck.

BRADFORD, Pa., Jan. 23.—A fatal railroad accident occurred on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg road near Carmen yesterday. One man was killed and four injured. Three sections of a coal train piled into each other. Fireman W. M. Baxter, of this city, had his arm so badly crushed that it was amputated. The middleman, named McPhilamee, who was in the caboose, was buried beneath the wreckage, and his body was burned to ashes in the fire which followed the collision. No trace of his body could be found. Conductor James Morrow was also badly hurt and bruised, and another man whose name could not be learned was injured. Fireman Traynor was also injured, but not seriously.

The Trial of Forger Sage.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23.—The trial of Horace D. Baker, alias George P. Sage, who escaped from the Harford county jail and was rearrested at Lansing, Mich., where he was passing himself off as a preacher, began in the criminal court yesterday. There are two indictments against Sage, one charging him with forging a draft for $1,950 on the National bank of Pawtucket, R. I., and the other charging him with forging a draft for $6,000 on the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Tama, Ia. These drafts were deposited by Sage last April in the Harford National bank and were drawn on by him.

Want to Succeed Justice Abbett.

TRENTON, Jan. 23.—The failure of Governor Werts to send to the senate the name of any person to succeed the late Justice Abbett upon the supreme bench has reopened a contest for the place. The most mentioned candidates for the past few days have been Judge Joseph H. Gaskell of Mount Holly and ex-Judge William M. Lanning of Trenton, but two new candidates have been brought forth. One is Colonel William E. Potter of Bridgeton and the other William S. Gummere of Trenton.

Says the President Worries Her.

DENVER, Jan. 23.—An insane woman named Scott, who says that Grover Cleveland is worrying her, called at Governor McIntyre's office to ask him to wire the president "a piece of her mind." She lost her temper and struck Secretary Brower, in consequence of which she was arrested.

Death Penalty for Train Robbers.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 23.—The house committee on criminal jurisprudence recommended the passage of Speaker Russell's bill making train robbery punishable by death.

YIELDING TO GERMANY.

Bill to Abrogate Discriminating Sugar Duty Presented.

THE NECESSITY FOR ITS PASSAGE.

The Amount of Revenue Should Not be Considered in Comparison With the Threatened and Resulting Loss to Our Exporters of Cattle and Hogs.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Chairman Wilson, of the ways and means committee, reported to the house the bill to abrogate the discriminating duty of one-tenth of a cent per pound on sugar imported from countries paying a bounty on exports. The report accompanying the bill expresses the opinion that it does not believe it was the intention or desire of congress in the last tariff act in imposing the additional duty on all sugars coming from countries paying a bounty on exports thereof, to give the ground for complaint to foreign nations of any violation on our part of long standing treaty obligations, and least of all to abrogate such treaties.

Both Germany and Austria-Hungary, have protested against the discriminating duty, holding it to be violative of the most favored nation clauses which for more than sixty years have governed their relations with the United States, and Germany is now making and enforcing trade relations which prohibit or impede the entrance of American meats into her markets.

Inasmuch as the inspection of our meat exports under existing laws, and under the regulations and supervision of the department of agriculture is now so thorough and effective as to exclude all reasonable objections to their entrance on sanitary grounds, it is almost certain, says the report, that this unfriendly action of Germany is really a retaliation for our discrimination against German beet sugar.

The committee believes that if the irritation caused by the alleged violation of our traditional treaty obligations to Germany, or more strictly to Prussia, is removed it will at once open the way for the removal of discriminations against the entry of our beef and hog products into Germany. Furthermore the example of Germany is having its influence with other nations with whom we have a large and profitable trade.

This additional duty on foreign sugars, concludes the report, is not needed, even from the point of view of protection, by American refiners and sugar growers. The amount of revenue should not be considered in comparison with the threatened and resulting loss or lessening of foreign markets for our raisers of cattle and hogs, while no amount of revenue would compensate for any merited stigma of faithlessness on our part to treaty obligations.

Convicted of Pension Fraud.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23.—The jury in the four Garitee pension cases returned a verdict of guilty in the McCreary case and informed Judge Morris that it was unable to agree in the other three cases. The attorney for Mr. Garitee made a motion for a new trial. Pending decision Mr. Garitee was given two days to get a bond for $1,000. Garitee was charged with taking an illegal pension fee of $12 from Mrs. Hannah McCreary, widow of James A. McCreary. The penalty for the crime is a maximum fine of $500 or two years' imprisonment, or both.

Factory Inspector Watchorn's Successor.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—James Campbell, of Pittsburg, yesterday entered upon his duties as factory inspector. He will announce some of his deputies next week. Colonel J. T. Robinson, of Mifflintown, the first delegate chosen to the late state convention for Governor Hastings, had a conference with the governor relative to his candidacy for deputy. Fifteen other loyal friends of the governor visited him yesterday on the same mission. There are over 400 applicants for those twelve places.

The Laidlaw-Sage Jury Disagrees.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The jury in the Laidlaw-Sage case came into court, and after they had declared that they could not agree, were discharged by Judge Patterson. The jury stood nine to three in favor of the plaintiff. They stood that way at every ballot taken, though they deliberated for sixteen hours. This necessitates a new trial of the case.

Debs Out on Bail.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—United States Marshal Arnold brought Eugene V. Debs and other directors of the A. R. U. before Judge Grosscup at 10 o'clock this morning. All gave bail in the sum of $2,000 and were released from custody. They are now free on the charge for which they were convicted until April 1, as the supreme court will not begin the hearing of the points at issue, which will consume several days, until March 25. In the meantime their trial for conspiracy to obstruct interstate commerce and the passage of the mails will begin. The trials begin Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Argentina's New Cabinet.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 23.—In his message to congress conveying his resignation President Saenz Pena said that he was impelled to resign in view of the decision of congress on the question of general amnesty, which decision he regards as a veritable stimulus to military anarchy and a discredit to the nation. Congress accepted the resignation with only one dissenting vote. A cabinet has been constituted as follows: Minister of finance Senor Romero; foreign affairs, Senor Bermejo; justice, Senor Paz; interior, Senor Zorilla; war, General Winter.

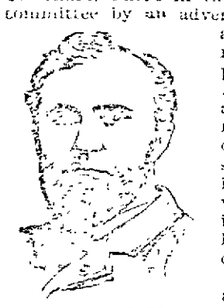
Sentenced to Electrocution.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Thomas Kerrigan and Richard Leach, murderers, were yesterday sentenced to death by Judge Ingraham in the court of over and terminer. Kerrigan was convicted last week of the murder of Aaron Alexander in April last. Leach was convicted of the murder of his wife in November. Both men were sentenced to die in the week beginning March 18.

JUDGE RICKS EXONERATED.

Charges Against Him Dismissed by the House Judiciary Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The attempt to impeach Judge Augustus J. Ricks, of Cleveland, failed in the house judiciary committee by an adverse vote of 9 to 7, and instead of the resolution for impeachment which Mr. Bailey, of Texas, had prepared to report to the house one will be presented denouncing the fee system, which, in the opinion of members, has made the proceedings possible.



JUDGE RICKS.

The resolution adopted by the committee is as follows: "Resolved, That while the committee is not satisfied that Judge Ricks has been guilty of any wrong committed while judge that will justify it in reporting a resolution of impeachment, yet the committee cannot too strongly censure the practice under which Judge Ricks made up his accounts."

Judge Ricks gave a personal explanation to the committee of the accounts in the Birdsell cases, which he had handled as clerk of the court, and which furnished ground for the investigation, and testimony against him was given by Martin W. Sanders, who had been his deputy clerk and succeeded to the clerkship when Judge Ricks was promoted to the bench.

The review of the case, which was often bitter and acrimonious, changed the opinion of no member of the committee, and the charges were ignored, as it had been expected they would be, when all the members could be brought together for a vote. The case was made largely a party question, although Judge Ricks had four Democratic votes, and as the next congress is strongly Republican, there is no probability that it will be revived.

Refused to Appoint a Receiver.

TRENTON, Jan. 23.—Chancellor McGill refused the application of Samuel K. Wilson for the appointment of a receiver for the Trenton Passenger Railway company. Mr. Wilson alleged that the company was insolvent, he being the accommodation indorser on $75,000 worth of the road's paper, about $50,000 of which had been protested previous to the application for a receiver. The paper has since been taken up, and now suit has been brought by the management of the road against Mr. Wilson to recover $50,000 which he is charged with having received from the sale of bonds. Mr. Wilson is vice president and one of the heaviest stockholders of the road, and he is at loggerheads with the other officers and directors.

Pope Appeals to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Senator Butler, of South Carolina, presented a memorial from Hon. Simpson Pope, late governor of South Carolina, asking the appointment of a committee to investigate the November election in that state. Mr. Pope says that thousands of voters were prevented from casting their ballots by reason of fraud, force and intimidation, and that thousands of ballots were thrown out or destroyed and in many instances other ballots substituted for them by managers and other persons acting under the direction of Governor Tillman, now senator, and of Senator Irby.

Taken from His Bed for Trial.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 23.—Sheriff Hershey last evening brought E. K. Smith, a banker from Columbia to this city. Smith, with his partner, C. E. Graybill, has been under indictment for embezzlement for over a year, but has always escaped trial on the plea of illness. The bank, a private institution, of which Smith was the leading spirit, was wrecked through his alleged crooked work, and depositors lost all they had—upwards of $200,000. Smith was in bed when the sheriff served the process and a physician accompanied him to this city. He is 74 years old.

The Fight Against Senator Washburn.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 23.—The first ballot in the legislature on the United States senatorship was cast at noon yesterday by the two houses in separate session, there being no choice, and balloting in joint session begins today. The vote in both houses resulted: W. D. Washburn, Rep., 54; Knute Nelson, Rep., 63; S. C. Comstock, Rep. 13; McHale, Dem., 11; I. Donnelly, Pop., 12; J. T. McCleery, Rep., 8; J. A. Tawney, Rep., 1, Judge Buckham, Rep., 1; C. A. Pillsbury, Rep., 1; William Mitchell, Dem., 1; D. A. Dickinson, Rep., 1.

DIAZ IS DETERMINED.

Guatemala Must Yield to the Demands of Mexico.

BOTH SIDES PREPARING FOR WAR.

A Clash of Arms Between the Two Republics Now Considered Inevitable—An Unconfirmed Report That Mexico's Great Military Chief in May Lead His Troops.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 23.—After a very stormy cabinet meeting President Diaz notified Guatemala through its minister that he would not concede one iota, and that Guatemala would have to give in to Mexico's demands or suffer the consequences. Other Central American representatives here, at a meeting, made the statement to President Diaz that they understood Mexico was trying to grasp Central American territory. President Diaz denied the assertion, and stated that Mexico would have her rights and the boundary lines should be as Mexico claims, and that Mexico had all the territory that she needed. It looks as though other Central American republics were behind Guatemala.

All the government students marched the streets with bands, shouting: "Viva Mexico," "Viva Diaz," and "On to Guatemala." They assembled in front of the palace, from 12,000 to 15,000 strong, clamoring for war and pledging their support to President Diaz. The president made a speech to the students and others, stating that he would not recede from Mexico's just rights.

The answer to Mexico's ultimatum is to be received here tomorrow, but President Diaz has notified Guatemala that he will not recede from the original demands.

Mexico has been preparing for war for some time, and has about 12,000 troops on the border. All the officers that have not been on active duty have been notified to report for active marching orders. Guatemala, too, is making active preparations, and the conflict is now deemed inevitable.

An interesting story regarding the probable outbreak of war between Guatemala and Mexico is to the effect that President Diaz will take command of the forces on the frontier in person. The report is widely spread in official gossip and is not without the range of possibility. In the higher circles it is held that General Diaz will not leave his seat as chief executive in the pending difficulties—at least not until his presence is imperatively demanded at the front.

The general opinion of those close to the executive is that he will place the command in the hands of one of three men to push the Guatemalan invasion. Those three officers are: General Bernardo Reyes, governor of the state of Leon and a general of division of the Mexican army; General Jose Vicente Villado, governor of the state of Mexico and general of brigade, and General Lovis Torres, governor of the state of Sonoro and general of brigade. Of these three it is pretty well known that the choice of the president is General Reyes, who is also the understood favorite of General Diaz as his successor as chief executive of the republic. The Guatemalan war will give the president an excellent opportunity to bring out his protege and push him well forward in public favor.

General Reyes is well and favorably known by his valor and fine executive abilities, and, next to the president, is the most popular man in Mexico among Americans. By his friendly and encouraging attitude as governor of Nuevo Leon he has planted many large American industries in the city of Monterey, and today, as a result, that place has a larger American population than the City of Mexico. Should anything prevent General Reyes taking command at the front, or should accident befall him, it is probable one of the other of the remaining generals would assume direction of the campaign.

Should the conflict lead into a general Central American fight, or develop into unforseen complications, it is extremely probable that General Diaz would then take the field in person, with the probability of adding to his glory as the greatest military man of the present generation in Spanish America.

A Pugilist's Severe Punishment.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 23.—In the county court here "Kid" Lewis, the first of a gang of prize fighters indicted in this county, was tried and convicted. His sentence is $200 fine and sixty days in jail. This is the first conviction ever had in Texas under the statute enacted in 1893, making prize fighting a misdemeanor. The case will go to the court of criminal appeals.

Mangled by Mine Cars.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 23.—A man named Hummel, employed on the Mahanoy plane to oil and attend the pulleys, was caught by one of the trips of coal cars on the plane and his body was horribly mutilated. Fragments of his body were found strewn along the rails. Hummel was about 40 years of age. He leaves a widow and a large family of children.

ABANDONED ON RONCADOR.

The Plight of Two Wreckers About the Bones of the Old Kearsarge.

A story of the manner in which the hulk of the historic old Kearsarge, now whitening on Roncador reef, is being despoiled by Caribbean sea wreckers, and of the awkward predicament of two of them who were at work upon her, is told by Mate Schwelow of the schooner Frank M. Noyes, which arrived from San Andreas with cocoanuts.

On Oct. 28, he says, while outward bound from Baltimore, the Noyes stood close into the Kearsarge's wreck. To the surprise of all on board a white flag was seen fluttering from the bones of the gallant old corvet, and soon after a small boat was seen pulling off from her. Captain Asquini ordered the Noyes hove to, and in a few minutes she was boarded by two bearded wreckers who said they belonged to one of the Carmen group of islands. They told Captain Asquini they had been landed on the reefs about the Kearsarge on Aug. 1 by a small schooner, which was to call for them in a couple of weeks. As soon as they had settled themselves they began work on the Kearsarge. In a short while they had secured 600 pounds of copper and about 200 pounds of copper bolts. This was all of value they could secure, so they settled down to wait for the schooner that was to take them and their plunder away.

When they were landed on the reef, they had a fairly good supply of provisions. August passed, and with its going their food and matches went. September came and went, and October had almost gone when the Noyes was sighted and in a measure ended their distress. For nearly two months the two men had lived on raw fish. They had no matches with which to kindle a fire, although the Kearsarge offered them her dry timbers for the blaze. Neither had they salt with which to flavor their raw fish. One of them had a piece of sail cloth in his mouth which, he said, he had been chewing 18 days in place of tobacco.

Captain Asquini supplied the men with all that was necessary to sustain them for some time to come. They would not leave the reef, for they did not want to abandon their copper treasure. They appreciated Captain Asquini's kindness, and to show it they wished to return to the wreck and take back to him some mementos of the famous craft. A favoring wind made Captain Asquini decline their offer, and soon the Noyes filled her sails and sped off toward San Andreas.—Baltimore Sun.

THE GEORGE W. CHILDS TOMB.

A Mausoleum of Granite and Bronze to Be Erected In a Philadelphia Cemetery.

Friends here of Mrs. George W. Childs, who since the death of her distinguished husband has been living chiefly in Washington, learned yesterday that she had given directions for the erection of a magnificent mausoleum in Central Laurel Hill cemetery and that the body of the late Mr. Childs will be placed in it. Mr. Childs' body at present lies near that of his friend, the late Anthony J. Drexel, in the Drexel tomb in Woodlands cemetery.

The mausoleum is to be constructed of granite of a neat design in the colonial style of architecture. Granite and bronze are the only materials to be used in the construction, and the mausoleum is to have no brick lining or lining of other material. The tomb is to be located along the terrace in the cemetery close to the Nicetown lane entrance and opposite the cottage of the superintendent of the cemetery.

The doors of the tomb are now being cast. They are of solid bronze 7 feet high and 3 feet 3 inches wide. They will be surmounted with a handsomely finished molded cornice. An oblong grille of finely carved scroll work design will ornament each door. The mausoleum will be pierced with a bronzed window fitted in with a circular grille 2 feet in diameter in front of the figured cathedral glass. The grille is richly carved.

There will be four catacombs in the mausoleum. The bronze plates for them will be handsomely carved and modeled. Mr. Childs' body will be placed in the mausoleum soon after the tomb shall have been completed.—Philadelphia Press.

Doctored the Oranges.

A few days ago the assistant postmaster of Port Chester, Pa., suspected the carriers of having stolen some oranges he had in the office, according to a local paper. So he bought another stock and asked a neighboring druggist to inject into them some drug that would make the thieves sick, but not injure them. The druggist injected water and then informed the carriers. They of course stole the oranges, and when the owner entered the office he found them all very sick. In a little while they were writhing on the floor. Then the joker thought the druggist had made a mistake and ran to him for a prescription. He prescribed brandy, and it took $5 worth to relieve them of their pain. Some of them got a little overcured by the medicine, or on the other side of a normal condition, but they enjoyed their superior's joke all the same.—New York Tribune.

No Card Playing In Boston Hotels.

The police commissioners have notified the proprietors of the hotels that they must refrain from providing their guests with facilities for card playing in the way of cards, chips or rooms to be used for this purpose, as it is said they have been in the habit of doing. Hereafter if gentlemen indulge in the pastime of gaming at the hotels they must furnish their own implements and carefully guard the nature of their occupation from the knowledge of the landlord.—Boston Transcript.

South Carolina Young Men In Office.

The admonition to give the young man a chance does not apply to South Carolina. The governor of that state is 31, his attorney general 25 and the adjutant general 24 years of age.—Baltimore Herald.

THAT BACHELOR FRIEND.

As a Critic of Babyhood He Is Not a Success.

A man never feels quite so heartsick as he does just after he has been showing off his new baby boy to a bachelor friend.

The task is a foolish one, because, no matter how many virtues the boy may have, the bachelor doesn't know enough to appreciate them.

On the subject of babies a bachelor's mind is either a maudlin mass of miscellaneous misinformation or an illimitable incrustation of idiotic ignorance.

"Yes, Bifkins," you say, with a proudly beating heart that fairly makes your bosom swell, "that boy weighed ten pounds when he was born." This is Bifkins' cue to start with surprise and exclaim: "By Jove, you don't say! Isn't he a corker?" But he doesn't start. He doesn't exclaim. He doesn't uncork a single corker. He accepts the astounding information calmly. What does he know about the proper weight of a corker? Nothing, absolutely, unqualifiedly nothing. He doesn't know that the average weight of infants at birth is about six pounds, and that your baby lacks only two pounds of being twice as much of a baby as the ordinary baby. On the contrary, he seems surprised to hear that the boy weighed so little. In short, what your bachelor friend doesn't know about babies would fill the shelves of the new Congressional library building.

Then, too, the boy may have laughed and crowed for you all day, but when you wish him to show off before your bachelor friend he smiles not, neither does he crow. He usually cries. The blundering bachelor has of course half scared the life out of him. The only crow in evidence is the metaphorical crow you eat before Bifkins, and the only laugh is the laugh of Bifkins at your expense.

If the boy is 2 months old, Bifkins is surprised to learn that he does not talk several languages and is amazed when you reluctantly admit that he cannot play leapfrog over the parlor chairs.

Bifkins not only fails to compliment the boy, but he seems loaded with tactless remarks.

"Well, old man," he says dismally, "I suppose he will soon be old enough to break up the furniture?" Then he smiles malevolently and adds, "I suppose he's old enough already to break you up financially?"

To cap the climax, your blundering bachelor friend displays the staying powers of a champion pugilist and the tireless, unending talkativeness of a tariff tinker. He remains so late that the boy, unduly exposed in such a windy atmosphere, gets the colic and is hurried screaming from the room.

When Bifkins rises to go, you possess more of an internal disturbance than the boy whose vocalizing is faintly audible in the distance. But you are outwardly calm. You restrain yourself. You do not kick him down stairs. You simply kick yourself for knowing him.—Truth.

Reward of Honesty.

Mr. Chugwater, who was taking a ride on a street car, had just handed a half dollar to the conductor. On counting the change given to him in return he called out:

"Conductor, you didn't keep out your nickel. You've given me 50 cents."

"So I have," replied the conductor, counting it himself. "I must have dropped a dime in my nickel pocket by mistake. Thanks."

He took back the dime, put it into its proper pocket, and Mr. Chugwater rode to his destination suffused with the comfortable glow that comes with the consciousness of having done a manly, honorable, upright act.

And it was not until Mr. Chugwater had got off the car that it dawned upon him he had paid 10 cents for his ride.—Chicago Tribune.

Wanted.

"Did you open that car window, sir?"

The speaker, a quiet, gentlemanly appearing man of 40, stood in the car aisle as he spoke and gazed anxiously down at the square jawed, determined looking individual who sat steadily wiping the perspiration from his brow.

"I did, sir," he replied.

"Then," said the first speaker, handing out a card, "if you have any feeling of humanity in your breast for a fellow sufferer, you will come to my house in town an hour after this train arrives. I want to get a porous plaster taken off my back."—New York World.

Logical.

The girl was pale but resolute, as is the habit of damsels of her age and limited experience.

"Papa," she protested, standing before her suitor, "do not hurt Reginald. He is the light of my life."

The old man smiled.

Suiting the action to the word, he assaulted the youth and cast him forth.—Detroit Tribune.

An Obstruction.

"Gentlemen," said the conductor, "before leaving this station there is likely to be a delay of several hours."

"What's the matter?" cried the passengers in chorus.

"Nothing that the company can help," replied the conductor, "but a piece of steak from the restaurant is lodged in the track just ahead of the engine."—Detroit Free Press.

A Valuable Dog.

Mrs. Witherby—I gave some of my cake to an ungrateful tramp this morning, and he said it wasn't fit for a dog.

Witherby—Great heavens! He didn't give it to our dog, did he?—New York World.

All Away.

Miss Gotham—Have you any papa and mamma, little boy?

Newsboy—No, mum. Me fam'ly's abroad.—Truth.

Unnecessary Sympathy.

I always felt sorry when I met Jim.
Poor fellow, he's married now.
And life is a serious thing to him,
For he lives by the sweat of his brow.

And the cares of a family weigh him down,
And he slaves to run the house.
Why, Jim was the gayest boy in town,
And I'll bet he's as poor as a mouse!

And because he looked so worn and sad
I tried, whenever we met,
To talk of the good times we'd had,
In hopes that he might forget.

Till I said I was living at the club,
Then I felt a deep chagrin
Lest he should think I was trying to rub
His misery farther in.

But he exclaimed: "That's a horrible life!
No child to climb on your knee;
No quiet home and the loving wife"—
By Jove, he was pitying me!

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

JOHN BURNS AND AMERICA.

While the Englishman Says Some Savage Things His Criticisms Are Mainly Just.

Mr. John Burns, the labor man, after his visit to Chicago, called that big monstrosity a pocket edition of hell. He has said many other savage things about this country. The Chicago remark seems to be rather severe on a locality that Burns has never seen, but his other uncomplimentary remarks are mainly true. He says there is nothing in London as villainous as our tenement houses. That is quite accurate. The thing for us to do is to change the tenement house system, not to advise Burns to go home and go to work. He says our officials are in many cases dishonest rascals and also bloodsuckers. Nobody doubts that now, not even the men who have made money by fighting for rottenness in this town.

He criticises Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt's big house on Fifth avenue. His criticism is as just as anything outside of the Ten Commandments. The house looks like a big hotel, and a badly designed hotel at that. It also looks a little like a pretentious almshouse. It is not as bad as the Huntington house on the other side of the street, for this reason—nothing could be as bad as the Huntington house. He says in excellent epigrammatic fashion: "Schools splendid, libraries excellent, jails too good, roads bad, streets worse, drainage the same, art museums good for the age of the country, corporations exacting, tyrannical and extravagant, railway traveling palatial for the rich and better than any I have ever seen for the poor."

What is there false about that? We ought to be glad to have Burns come here and tell us the truth, and we ought to try to keep him. He is more pleasing than the fool Englishman of society who comes here, eats the terrapin of the fool American of society and then goes back to blackguard his fool American brother in a book.—Arthur Eri-bane in New York World.

GLADSTONE'S LITTLE JOKE.

The Reproduction of an Old Magazine Article Sets the Critics Agog.

Mr. Gladstone has played unconsciously a capital little joke upon his critics, literary and political, and is said to be enjoying it as much as anybody. Fifteen years ago he wrote for a now defunct magazine an article entitled "The Evangelical Movement: Its Parentage, Progress and Issue." This was recently unearthed by the editor of the present Evangelical Magazine, who, with the author's permission, republished it in the December number. The critics, with one accord, treated the article as new and praised or sneered according to their political beliefs, which is quite a common way of writing literary criticisms here. The Liberals, of course, found in the article proof that Mr. Gladstone's intellect had improved, like good wine, with age, and the Tories, with equal certainty, detected signs of mental decay. The Radicals, too, drew comfort from it as showing that the Grand Old Man in his retirement was more eager than ever to sever the connection between church and state, while the Whig churchmen discovered in this remarkable article abundant arguments in favor of the maintenance of the union between the state and church.

As a matter of fact, the Grand Old Man now writes little, although he is bombarded with applications from editors in all parts of the world. He is likely to write still less for the outside world if it be true, as rumored, that he has commenced dictating his memoirs to his wife. The greater part of every day is still devoted to reading theological works from his already famous library, and collectors will learn with interest that he makes copious marginal notes upon every book which passes through his hands.—Exchange.

Slates Banished From Boston Schools.

The reasons assigned by the school committee for the discontinuance of slates, slate pencils and sponges in the public schools and the substitution of paper, lead pencils and rubber erasers in their places are as follows:

First.—A light gray mark upon a slightly darker gray surface is more or less indistinct and trying to the eyesight.

Second.—The resistance of the hard pencil upon the hard slate is trying to the muscles, and the resistance to which the muscles are thus trained must be overcome when beginning to write with pencil or pen upon paper.

Third.—The use of slates, slate pencils and sponges is a very uncleanly custom and leads to and establishes very uncleanly habits.—Boston Herald.

A Brilliant Scheme.

A brilliant scheme was adopted the other day by a theatrical company which found itself stranded at Dayton, O., and its next engagement at Cleveland. A plan was made for the arrest of one of the members of the company on the charge of opening a letter belonging to another member. The accused was taken before the United States commissioner at Cleveland, where the other members of the company were subpœnaed as witnesses. They of course secured his acquittal and also their fees, amounting to $6.25 apiece. It was the most profitable engagement they have played this season, but the commissioner is willing to bet that they can't play it on him again.—Troy Times.

To Abolish Toasts.

A report for which some people in all civilized countries have been longing for years has at last come from—of all places in the world—Hungary. It is an agitation against after dinner speech-making. The Pesther Lloyd publishes in facsimile an invitation to dinner which bears a note to the effect that guests are desired to use their influence toward abolishing all toasts. It appears, however, that such is the force of habit that one of the company got up in the middle of the repast to propose a toast, "To the genial idea of our Amphytrion."

ADDS VIGOR TO OLD AGE.

The Weakness, the Chilliness of Years Met by Paine's Celery Compound.

Men and women past their grand climacteric at sixty or sixty-five, often experience a chilliness and a feebleness that causes them needless alarm.

Needless if they fully perceive the meaning of these infirmities and take pains at once to correct the beginnings of weakness and debility, as it is so easy to do if begun at once.

A strengthening, invigorating nerve food is all that they need to arouse the vital organs from their sluggish, unhealthy condition. Paine's celery compound, the great nerve food and blood purifier, first prepared by Prof Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of the Darmouth medical school, is, to-day, within the reach of every home in the land. It is the usual prescription of countless physicians in cases of rheumatism neuralgia, sleeplessness, and the many other results of starved nerves and depleted blood.

Says M. H. T. Gleason, of West Damascus, Pa., whose portrait is given above:

"The past year I used five bottles of Paine's celery compound for rheumatism. It cured that trouble and helped me to sleep and rest better at night. I am nearly eighty years of age.

"Last month I again tried it, taking two bottles, and as a result feel better than I have any time this winter."

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, coughs and colds, each bottle guaranteed—Electric Bitters, this great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Bucklin's Arnic Salve, the best in the world. Dr. King New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them and the dealer whose named is attached herewith will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at McMonagle & Rogers Drug Store.

The Doctors Endorse It.

At a regular meeting of the Genesee County (N. Y.) Medical Society, the physicians of the county passed a vote of thanks for samples of Gilmore's Aromatic Wine, which had been presented to the society, and said that they recognized the remedy as being adapted to a large class of summer diseases. Physicians everywhere recommend this excellent medicine, especially to their lady patients. Sold by all druggists for $1.00 per bottle.

Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture.

"My baby is subject to severe attacks of diarrhœa. During the last sickness, Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture was freely given and an immediate cure resulted. It would have required a dozen visits of a physician as on former occasions. I believe Dr. Hand's Remedies would have saved the life of the child I lost, had they been within my reach at the time of its sickness." Mrs. F. H. Bennett, 722 New street, Camden, N. J. Sold at all drug stores, 25 cents.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was taken down with pneumonia, succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at McMonagle and Rogers' Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

WEDNESDAY, JAN 23, 1895.

A bill appropriating $1,000,000 to "continue the work of construction" on the State's $23,000,000 capitol has been introduced in the Assembly.

The Brooklyn trolleymen's strike has spurred members of the Legislature to great activity and over a dozen bills regulating the operation of trolley roads and prescribing how hours of labors shall be reckoned have been introduced.

Gov. Morton did not do Platt's bidding, yesterday, when, as member of the Capitol Commission, he helped turn down Sam Morris, of Troy, Platt's candidate for Superindent of Public Buildings, and voted for Frederick Easton, of Albany. It must not be assumed, however, that the Governor has broken with Mr. Platt. Independence in little things is useful as a blind to subserviency in more important matters.

The esteemed Press, which proposed the abolition of spring elections, thinks it "ridiculous" that "a few Democratic brethren" (and Republicans as well) had interest enough in the city's welfare to be willing to attend the meeting of the Council, and argue against a change, which they believed could be productive of nothing but evil. If there is anything "ridiculous" in public spirit or even, as the Press intimates, in party spirit directed to the public welfare, we own that our sense of humor is not sufficiently developed to perceive it. But no one is so stupid as to fail to see the ridiculous position in which a party boss is placed when he tries to put up a job and does it so poorly, that his job goes down before the first breath of popular disapproval.

STRIKERS PLAY THEIR TRUMP CARD

All Railroad Linemen Ordered Out—No Disorder To-day—Three New Lines Opened—Companies Running 220 Cars—A Dry Goods House Lays Off 500 Clerks.

BY UNITED PRESS.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23.—An order was issued at noon, to-day, by the Executive Committee of the Linemen's Association, for all electrical workmen employed on the trolley lines to go out at once.

Cars are running on the majority of the lines, to-day, but the Brooklyn Heights company was greatly hindered by the extensive wire cutting which had been indulged in during the night.

The Third Avenue line had seventy-five non-union motormen and conductors ready to take out cars, this morning, but the wires were cut and the road was helpless.

There has been but little disorder, though a strong military guard was thought necessary to escort fifty non-union men to the Myrtle avenue depot. When near the depot crowds of toughs began to jeer. Company G., of the Seventh Regiment, charged the crowd and dispersed it without trouble

The Myrtle avenue line was opened at 9 o'clock. For thirty blocks from the depot soldiers were stationed at all cross streets, every window was ordered closed and no one allowed to stand in the streets. Three policemen guarded each car.

At 10:45 two cars filled with non-union men were run over the Third Avenue road to the Fifty eight street station guarded by two military companies and a large force of police. Every window and door in the vicinity of the depot was ordered closed and the police even drove workmen from a number of new buildings in course of erection on Fifty-sixth and Fifty seventh streets. A guard was placed over the building material to prevent its use in obstructing tracks.

Six cars were on the Butler street line, this morning, the first since the strike began. There was no disorder. The Reed street line was also opened with eight cars

On all the lines affected by the strike 220 cars are running, this afternoon. This is the best showing yet by the companies.

The strikers were paid, to-day, by the Executive Committee, the married men receiving $10 and the single men $7 per week. The strikers suffered from no lack of funds.

Frederick Leoeser & Co., dry goods merchants, suspended five hundred clerks, to-day, and other merchants have done the same. They say their trade has been affected to such an extent that they cannot afford to keep clerks on the salary roll.

DRESS PARADE AND DANCE.

"Wars Wild Alarms" Did Not Interefere with the 24th's Programme for Last Night—Many Spectators See the Parade—A Dance After the Parade.

Notwithstanding the fact that the 24th Separate Company was under orders for duty at a moment's call, the dress parade and review, preparations for which had been made for some time, were held at the Armory, last evening.

The only change in the programme was the substitution of the field uniform for the dress uniform, a change which added materially to the businesslike air, with which the boys of "Ours" appeared to be inspired. The men wore their fatigue uniforms, campaign hats and white leggings. The Merriam pack, with blanket rolled upon it, was also carried, the only part of the uniform which was missing being the overcoats, which, owing to the heat of the room, were left in the lockers.

The company was divided into three companies, forming a battalion, of which Capt. McIntyre was Major, acting; Lieut. L S. Stivers, Adjutant, acting; First Sergeant Decker, Sergeant-Major, acting. Lieut. J. D. Stivers was in command of the right company; Sergeant F. B. Hathaway commanded the color company, while Sergeant E C. Strack had command of the left company.

The 24th Separate Company Military Band was present, and promptly at 8:15 o'clock the adjutant's call was sounded.

The battalion was formed and reviewed by Mayor W. K. Stansbury and Ex-Mayor O. H. Bailey, and after the companies had passed in review in quick and double time, the battalion was re-formed and the ceremony of dress parade was gone through.

The large drill hall was crowded with spectators, all of whom seemed to thoroughly enjoy the drill, which was different from any that has ever been given in public in this city.

A dance followed the drill and for several hours the soldiers and their friends had a merry time dancing to the music of Bright's orchestra.

UP THE MIDLAND.

The O, and W's New Creameries—A Furniture Factory for Rockland.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—The new creameries that are being erected along the Ontario and Western will add the milk of five hundred cows to New York city's supply during the flush of the season. The increased demand in the city will probably require about that much to supply it. O. and W. milk seems to meet with ready sale after it is once started.

—A project is now on foot to form a stock company to establish a furniture manufactory at Rockland. From $15 000 to $20,000 worth of stock will be needed to begin with and the establishment when in full blast will give steady employment to seventy-five or a hundred hands. It looks at present as if it was a go. Something of this kind is needed to furnish employment to the rapidly increasing population of the twin villages.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Jacob F Smith.

Mrs. Chloe A, wife of Mr. Jacob F. Smith, died at her home, No. 120 East Main street, at 6.35, this morning, of heart failure, resulting from an attack of pneumonia, aged seventy years and fifteen days.

Mrs. Smith was born at New Vernon and was one of seven children of Daniel Brown and Mabel Bennett.

While she was quite young her parents moved to Mechanictown, where on Feb. 3rd, 1844, she was married to Mr. Smith. Their golden wedding was celebrated on Feb. 3rd of last year.

Seven children were born to them, all of whom are living. They are Esther M., widow of the late William Clemson, of this city; Harriet L, wife of Emanuel Stones, of Port Jervis; Linnie L., widow of Charles Bell, of this city; Eliza A., wife of Fayette E. Townsend, of Jersey City; Miss Adelaide C., of Newark; Nellie A, widow of William Smith, of this city, and Harry A., at home.

She is also survived by three sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Melinda, widow of W. T. Ludlum, and Julia, widow of Wm. Swinton, both of this city, and Frances, wife of Geo. V. Peck, of Port Jervis. The brothers are Daniel Brown, of Port Jervis, and David Brown, of this city. Another brother, Jacob O., died in 1875.

Mrs Smith has resided in this city for the past forty years. She was a member of Grace Episcopal Church and an exemplary Christian. As wife and mother she was gentle and loving and as neighbor and friend held in high esteem. She was one of the charter members of Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., and in her death that organization loses a valuable member.

Mrs Keziah V. Robertson.

Mrs. Keziah V., widow of the late James F. Robertson, died, last evening, at her home near Slate Hill, aged seventy-two years, nine months and twenty-three days. She had been in failing health for two years and about ten days ago was attacked by grip, which developed into pneumonia.

Mrs. Robertson was a daughter of William and Mary Van Auken Graham, of Mt. Orange, in the town of Greenville. She was married Jan. 15th, 1845, and for forty five years lived on the farm on which she died. In her youth she united with the South Centreville Presbyterian Church and was always a faithful and consistent member.

Mrs. Robertson was the mother of eight children of whom six survive: Augusta Isabella, wife of Robert T. Boyd, of Jersey City; William D., of Jersey City; James G., Fred D., Alexander and Antoinette at home. She is also survived by two brothers and one sister: Richard and Samuel S. Graham, and Mary, widow of Thomas Sease.

The funeral notice appears elsewhere.

Mrs. Thomas W. Freer.

Mrs. Thomas W. Freer, of Newark, N. J., died at her home in that city, yesterday, of pneumonia.

Mrs. Freer was a former resident of this city, her husband having for many years been the engineer at the Diamond Paper Mills, at Milo.

Deceased was a sister of Mrs. Alanson Crane, of Academy avenue, this city. The body will be brought to this city on Friday, for interment in Phillipsburgh cemetery.

HUMORS OF THE "WAR SCARE."

A Grandmother and a Mother Who Didn't Want Their Boys to Go to Brooklyn.

Members of the 24th, when orders came, yesterday, to get in readiness to start for Brooklyn, were a great deal more anxious to go to the seat of war than their wives, mothers and sweethearts were to have them go.

One member of the company on going home to get ready for war was locked in the cellar by his grandmother who wisely thought that he would be a great deal safer there than in a Brooklyn street, dodging bricks and paving stones. The militiaman escaped from confinement through the coal hole and reported at the Armory on time.

The anxious mother of another member of the company, when she learned that there was a chance of her boy seeing service, hunted up Capt. McIntyre and said to him: "I want you to take my son's name off your list, right away. I wont have him go where there are strikes and riots. He didn't join the company to have anything to do with such things." The Captain reassured her by telling her that there wasn't much danger that the company would leave town, and the young man's name is still on the company's roster

In the Hands of the Sheriff.

Sheriff Beakes has seized the shoe store of W. H. Rogers, on West Main street, under an execution of judgment held by Dr. Terry of Ridgebury.

Dr. Terry is Mr. Rogers' father-in-law and it is understood his claim is for money loaned. The stock is advertised for sale on January 30th.

Mr. Chadsey Lectures at Warwick

B. F. Chadsey Esq., delivered a lecture in Warwick, last evening, to a large audience. His subject was "Alcoholism as a disease—Its scientific Treatment and Cure."

A GATHERING OF VETERANS.

Formal Presentation to Capt. Wisner of the Medal of Honor Awarded Him by Congress—Speeches and Letters of Regret.

When Congress awarded to Capt. L. S. Wisner, of this city, a medal of honor for bravery at the battle of Chancellorsville, some of his comrades in the Orange Blossoms' Association conceived the idea of ratifying the act of Congress and giving their testimony to his bravery on the field, by a formal presentation of the medal. Capt. James A. Grier took the initiative and began correspondence with members of the association and found all anxious to participate. Last night was fixed upon as the date and at 8 o'clock fifty-one members of the association and comrades from other regiments who had been invited, assembled at Capt. Wisner's home on Wisner avenue, where they were given a hearty welcome by the captain and his family.

Mrs. Wisner and her daughters had prepared a bountiful dinner, and soon after their arrival, the veterans were seated at table and the viands disappeared very rapidly.

After supper, pipes and tobacco were passed, the pipes, each of which was decorated with an orange ribbon, being intended as souvenirs of the occasion.

Lieutenant H. R. Mayette, by general consent, acted as master of ceremonies, and introduced General J. Hobart Ward, who in a suitable address made a formal presentation of the Medal of Honor which was accepted by Major Benedict in behalf of Capt. Wisner, whose powers of speech had deserted him for the time being.

Speeches were also made by R. C. Jackson, A. B. Wilbur, J. A. Helvin, U. D. Quick, A. E. Ludington, E. S. Merrill, A. J. Hornbeck, C. B. Wood, W. C. F. Bastain, C. C. Lutes and H. L. Deuell,

Letters of regret were read from the following comrades: Col. C. H. Weygant, of Newburgh; Lieut. John King, New York; Capt. Henry F. Travis, LaHarpe, Kas.; Bugler Moses P Ross, New York; Adjt. W. B. Van Houten, New York; Quartermaster Augustus Denniston, Washingtonville; Chaplain T. S. Bradner, New York; Major S. H. Leavett, 86th N. Y. Vols; Capt Thos. Taft, Cornwall; Lieut. A. P. Francisco, Chicago; Lieut. Lewis T. Shulz, Cornwall; Lieut. J. B. Stansbrough, Owego; Capt. Thomas Bradly, Walden; Capt. Chas. B. Dahlgren. Hon. M. D. Stivers also sent a letter of regret.

Brig. Gen. J. Hobart Ward, of New York; Major J. W. Benedict, of Warwick, Capt. John W. Houston, of Warwick; Lieut. H. R. Mayette and Lieut. U. D. Quick, of Brooklyn; Captains C. B. Wood, Theo. Robinson, R. A. Malone, J. A. Grier; Lieutenants J. F. Roosa, Gabriel Tuthill, Norman Sly; Messrs. Adam W. Beakes, J. A. Beakes, George Beakes, J. R. Skelton, E. S. Puff, D. Carpenter, W. W. Carpenter, John Crawford, C. C. Lutes, W. W. Bailey, J. G. Irwin, H. M. Howell, Moses Crist, N. E. Hallock and Isaac Kanoff.

Other comrades present were:

Capt. Ira Dorrance and Messrs. A. J. Hornbeck, A. B. Wheeler, H. L. Deuell, E. S. Merrill, A. E Ludington, G. W. Reed, S. A. Fay, John Miles, J. D. Adams, J. T. Ogden, Henry Riker, W. C. F. Bastian, Joshua Hirst, Wm. O Neal, U. K. Still, A. Coddington, C. R. Smith, Thomas Riker.

There were also present Henry B. Wisner, Sr., a brother of Captain Wisner; R. C. Jackson, General Superintendent of the second division of the U. S. railway mail service, and a live "Johnnie" in the person of J. A. Helvin, of the 44th Virginia battalion, C. S. A.

These ceremonies over, the veterans spent several hours in reminiscences of war times and it was not until 2 o'clock, this morning, that they returned to their homes.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

At the Station to See the 24th—Anything but Jays—Vocal Society Rehearsal—Going South—Personal Notes

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—Many of our people were at the station, this morning, expecting to see the 24th Separate Company, of Middletown on the train, on its way to Brooklyn, it having been reported around town, last night, that the company had been ordered to Brooklyn, this morning.

—Dr. Parker's "Reubens" have proved themselves anything but "jays," having won five out of six games in which they have bowled. Mark Howell's "Bowlomaniacs" will have their name changed to "Blowhardmaniacs," if they do not strike their gait before long, and stop letting the "colts" beat them.

—The rehearsal of the Goshen Vocal Society will begin at 8:30 o'clock, Friday evening, this week, at the Presbyterian Church, on account of the prayer meeting that evening.

—Dr. E. R. Varcoe will make a trip to Florida and other points in the South. He expects to be absent about three weeks and his dental rooms will be closed while he is away. He expects to leave Wednesday, Feb. 6th.

—Mr. Geo. Wisner has so far recovered from his severe attack of pneumonia that he is able to sit up again, a short time every day.

—It is reported that one of Goshen's most prominent young ladies, the daughter of a county official, will be married in February.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Very Little Local Information—The Unknown Dead—The Loneliness of Crowds

From a Special Correspondent

—The grip has a fair proportion of our population in its clutches, but there are no new scarlet fever cases reported.

—One often sees in the papers a notice to the effect that the body of some unknown man or woman has been found and one glances carelessly over the paragraph without stopping to think of the tragedy frequently conveyed in those few words. We naturally cry out in sorrow and sympathy when we hear of the ending of an honorable and useful life, but after all perhaps death in such a case is not so deserving of pity as is that of the unknown who "goes down into silence," leaving no clue to his identity, an outcast, tossed about upon life's ocean, sinking at last with only the careless eyes of strangers to note where the waves closed over his head.

—It would seem as though a friendless person would be more goaded to desperation and thoughts of suicide in a crowded city than in the solitude of the country. It is true that nature does not always appear to be in sympathy with our moods. The sun shines as brightly and the birds sing as sweetly when we are sad as when we are happy. If we give ourselves up to her influence, however, she will generally soothe us even if we are unconscious of the benefit at the time. But what can be more pitiable than the condition of the person, sick perhaps both in body and soul, who finds himself alone in a bustling indifferent crowd? There are probably no words that show the human side of our Savior's nature more th roughly than the words wrung from Him in His hour of trial: Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?" Are loneliness, desertion, physical anguish, the breaking of a mighty heart nothing to you? Undoubtedly it is better for us that we do not know of all the sin and sorrow that is about us in the world, for poor, weak human nature could never bear the weight of such a burden. Even if we are inclined to be good samaritans, binding up wounds wherever we see them and administering oil and wine, there must of necessity be very many cases when we unconsciously "pass by."

A GRAND COACHMAN.

HE IS AT THE HEAD OF THE LORD MAYOR OF LONDON'S STABLE.

A Big Man Physically and In Other Respects—The Carriage and Horses—Lord Mayors May Come and Go, but the Coachman Is a Fixture.

An antediluvian spectacle was prepared for me in the stables of the lord mayor of London. In a vast courtyard ... ceremonious carriage made of gold, to which were harnessed six magnificent brown horses; harness ornamented with massive copper, carved by an artist, if not with taste at least with a great deal of care, and a multitude of ribbons and cockades of a cherry color.

On the seat, six feet above the earth, the coachman, but what a coachman, my friends! A coachman the breed of which has been lost since the time of Louis XIV. He wore a wig with a sextuple line of curls symmetrically arranged, had a bicornered hat on his head, and he wore his livery as Wellington after Waterloo must have worn his uniform. His livery has a grand air. It is black and gold. The frock is too ornamental. The black velvet of it disappears under a thick embroidery of gold wheat and field flowers of purple silk, but the chest on which it is opened is so ample, and the large epaulets, with gold fringes, fall with a nobility so imposing on arms so fat and so firm, that one cannot find this exhibition of wealth excessive.

The carriage is a poem. It is of the purest rococo style. Massive in the lower part, the panels of which are ornamented with allegoric paintings, the box is exclusively formed of looking glasses held together by a light framework of gilded wood. Everything is gilded, from the Cupids which hold the box to the chimerical figures which ornament the platform where the grooms stand; from the Tritons which hold with their strong arms the seat where the corpulent Phaethon is enthroned to the shell where he places his feet; from the hub to the tire of the wheels. Only the interior of the carriage is not gilt. It is ornamented with red cushions.

"Have you seen everything?" asks the fat man. I say "Yes." and Master Wright descends from his perch. He puts aside with sacerdotal slowness one by one his bicornered hat, his wig and his frock. As he becomes a simple mortal he talks and smiles. I smile, too, because he strangely resembles Coquelin. His trumpet shaped nose is particularly a success.

Master Wright is not too proud of it. He is proud only of his size. He talks of it with evident conceit.

"Do you know," he says confidentially, "that I measure from shoulder to shoulder 47 inches? To become a member of the Royal guard, where there are splendid men, you need only 42 inches. Some of them measure 43. There are some who measure 44, but there is not one who measures 47."

In the harness room—in a special room of which the first coachman alone has the key—Wright hands to me one of the sets of harness. Its weight is fabulous. Each horse carries 110 pounds. Add to this the enormous mass of the car, and you may understand why it is that ordinary horses will not do for the annual parade. The liveryman who has charge of the stables of the lord mayor is compelled to search for two months in advance in order to find the six horses destined to drag during this memorable parade the formidable machine. The rest of the year there are only six horses in the stable. They are all beautiful, but of a smaller size. Four of them are harnessed to the second carriage, the lord mayor's dress carriage. Two are harnessed to the semi-state carriage.

The carriages are not the property of the lord mayor, but of the city of London. They are rented by the year. The price is very high, as the coat of arms and the painting on the panels must be changed every year. The second carriage costs £800.

The arms of the city of London are of chiseled copper. An elegant and fine gallery at the top of the wagon is made of the same metal. There are four beautiful octagonal lanterns at the four corners. The panels are black and gold. The coachman's seat is covered with black and red velvet.

The service of the stables is composed of a head coachman, of a second coachman, more especially devoted to the lady mayoress; of a private coachman, a footman, a groom and two postilions. Their total wages are £10 a week.

"I would wager," said Wright, with a mocking smile, "that you will ask what the cost of my liveries is. Well, this uniform was paid for by the lord mayor only recently. Its cost was £100."

"Fortunately," I said, "you do not renew it every year."

"You are mistaken. Every lord mayor has a livery different from that chosen by his predecessor. We change livery every year.

"And does the lord mayor have to pay for all this?"

"Certainly, sir. It is a dignity everybody may not have. But you must remember that the most parsimonious of lord mayors never spent less than £20,000 a year. Do you know how much the city allows him? No? Well, the city allows him only £10,000 a year."

"How is it," said I, "that you are not changed as well as the lord mayor?"

Master Wright stood up with a haughty dignity. He said:

"Sir, we are servants of the city of London. As a corporation by the city to our modest functions, we serve it in the person of its lord mayor, and we serve it faithfully, but we are not the servants of the lord mayor. Lord mayors come and go. We remain."

After this solemn phrase Master Wright cordially extended his hand to me. I shook it, and when he put it back in his pocket it was not empty.—Theodore Sisson in Temps.

STORIES THAT WELL WELL KNOWN PEOPLE LIKE TO RECALL.

The Learned Professor a True Philanthropist—His Humane Methods Praised Everywhere.

Charles J. Mutch, of 99 South Division street, Buffalo says: "For the past twenty years," said he, "I have suffered terribly from dyspepsia. I could not eat scarcely anything, and at times was unable to even retain water on my stomach. When I ate, the food seemed to lie in my stomach with a hot burning sensation. There was a pain on my right side that caused me intense agony. Usually within four to six hours after eating I vomited my food, when the pain in my side would stop until hunger compelled me to eat again. I was troubled with dizziness, was very nervous and my whole system was so run down that words cannot describe how I felt. I had four doctors, besides trying every medicine I ever heard of and spending hundreds of dollars without receiving any benefit. Just one month ago I began using Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure. I did not have much faith in it, but my friends who had been cured with his remedies urged me to try it. The first few doses improved me so much that I continued taking it, and am now thoroughly cured. I have a good appetite can eat and digest any kind of food and am in excellent health. My friends are greatly surprised at the change in me, as they did not believe I would ever be a well man again. I owe it all to Munyon's Remedies."

Munyon's Homeopathic Remedy Company of Philadelphia, put up a cure for every disease. No matter what the disease is or how many doctors have failed to cure you, ask your druggist for a 25 cent vial of one of Munyon's cures, and if you are not benefited your money will be refunded.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MIDDLETOWN.

The Sick May Receive Medical Services Free of Charge.

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on Tuesday, January 29th, one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month Office hours from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p.m.

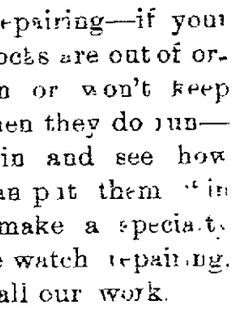
Weak, Irritable, Tired

"I Was No Good on Earth."

Dr. Miles' Nervine strengthens the weak, builds up the broken down constitution, and permanently cures every kind of nervous disease.

"About one year ago I was afflicted with nervousness, sleeplessness, Creeping sensation in my legs, Slight palpitation of my heart, Distracting confusion of the mind, Serious loss or lapse of memory. Weighted down with care and worry. I completely lost appetite And felt my vitality wearing out, I was weak, irritable and tired, My weight was reduced to 160 lbs., In fact I was no good, on earth.



A friend brought me Dr. Miles' book, "New and Startling Facts," and I finally decided to try a bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Before I had taken one bottle I could sleep as well as a 10-yr.-old boy. My appetite returned greatly increased.

When I had taken the sixth bottle My weight increased to 176 lbs., The sensation in my legs was gone; My nerves steadied completely; My memory was fully restored. My brain seemed clearer than ever. I felt as good as any man on earth. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is A great medicine, I assure you."

OUR WINES AGAINST THE WORLD.

California Will Have a Full Exhibit at the Bordeaux Exposition.

The viticultural commissioners have decided to make an exhibit of California wines and brandies at the exposition which is to be held at Bordeaux from the 1st of May next until the 1st of November.

Secretary Scott received a cable dispatch last week from Bordeaux to the effect that the Societe Philomathique has accepted the terms offered by the viticultural commission, and that California wines and brandies will be accorded a full and complete representation at the forthcoming exhibition.

This is the first opportunity which has ever been accorded local wine growers and distillers to display their products in Bordeaux. During the last two years substantial recognition has been accorded California wines and brandies in various European centers. Gold medals have been awarded at the expositions in Genoa in 1892, in Dublin in 1892, in Antwerp in 1885 and in Lyons in 1894, but the California wine and brandy makers have never before had an opportunity of showing their best products to the winemakers of the world in the center of the greatest claret market in the world—Bordeaux.

Secretary Scott of the viticultural commission said:

"California wines have already received splendid recognition from foreign experts. We intend to carry the battle right into the heart of the finest producing district of clarets in the world. Five years ago an effort to convince the bottlers of French wine that we had wines worthy of their recognition might have been hopeless. There are, however, in this state 100 or more men who have in view the production of the very highest types of wine, whether these types be of claret, Burgundy, Rhine wines or any other kind. These people know that we have an area of country suitable for wine-making as large and as varied as all of the countries of Europe outside of Russia.

"We want to put samples of all of our wines before the countries of the world, and we have never before had such an opportunity as is now presented in the Bordeaux exposition. We do not claim that we have the very best of everything, but we do want to show to all comers that we have at least as good wine as can be shown by any country. All that we ask is an equal and fair chance with any country, and I think it is fortunate for the state that the means exist for inviting such a comparison without any undue expense to the individual winemakers. The commission intends to collect all of the samples. The samples will be sent on, and due care will be taken that fair play is done to all concerned. All that we are waiting for is for complete particulars as to the exposure."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Five Hours by Electric Road In Place of Four Days by Stage.

Chicago capitalists, in conjunction with others in New York and California, may undertake an improvement in the Golden State in the shape of an electric road which will involve an expenditure of $2,500,000. The projected road is to run from Merced, in the San Joaquin valley. As planned it is to continue from that town into the heart of the Yosemite valley, a distance of 100 miles. A. F. Hatch, one of the Chicago men interested, said recently that few things in connection with the project were definitely settled except the plan in a general way.

"The purpose," he said, "is to furnish modern transportation facilities into the Yosemite. At present visitors leave the railroad either at Merced or Raymond and travel by stage into the valley. It is a four days' journey for the round trip and a laborious mountain climb for animals, although the same distance could be traversed under some conditions in a few hours. Despite the discomforts of the trip, many people visit the region. By an electric road the journey will be reduced to a five hours' ride in a comfortable car. It is proposed to equip the road for freight traffic in connection with passenger business. I know the carrying of freight by an electric road is an experiment, but it has been done, and we think it can be accomplished regularly, successfully and profitably."—Chicago Tribune.

Their Credentials.

The principal of a certain ladies' college in Cambridge advertised for a porter, asking the candidates to apply by letter. One correspondent began with "My dear sir," and ended with "Love to all the family."

Another, after stating his many qualifications, made the following admission: "I am a married man, but a Christian," and at the foot of his letter put, "P. S.—Strick T. T."

A third, a woman, wrote in favor of her husband, saying he was specially well qualified to be a janitor in a school "because he had a sister who was married to a gentleman whose father had been a teacher."—London Tit-Bits.

An Eighteen Ton Bell.

One result of the French-Russian fetes was the movement at St. Petersburg to provide Notre Dame, Paris, with a big bell made in Russia. The architects have discovered that the edifice cannot support the weight of the proposed bell, and an arrangement has been made between the Russian committee and Cardinal Richard that the bell shall be placed in the Church of the Sacred Heart. The gift, which is nearly finished, weighs 18 tons. It will be called "La Cloche de la Paix." In a few weeks it will be transported from St. Petersburg to Odessa in a Russian vessel and taken to Marseilles, thence overland to Paris.—Paris Letter.

Peter's Pence Dwindling.

A few years ago the Peter's pence from France averaged 3,000,000 francs. In 1893 the sum was 1,800,000 francs, and last year it fell below 1,000,000.

COTTOLENE.

Lardepsia

would be a more appropriate name for that common cause of suffering—dyspepsia—because most cases of dyspepsia can be traced to food cooked with lard. Let COTTOLENE take the place of lard in your kitchen and good health will take the place of Dyspepsia. Try it. Every pail of the genuine COTTOLENE bears this trade mark —steer's head in cotton-plant wreath.

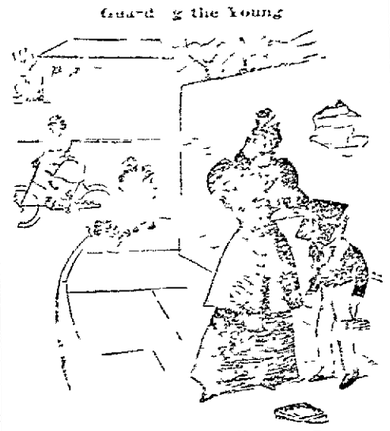
Apologetic Apology.

Germans are not to be blamed for doing things by halves. When they study, they do it with thoroughness. Even in their apologetic way they go to the root of the matter.

Here, for example, is a card published by a tailor in the "Among Ourselves" column of a Berlin newspaper. Evidently he believes that an apology is good for the body as well as the soul:

"Having returned from the journeyman [illegible] I have a very handsome assortment of [illegible] and I take the liberty to call the attention of my honorable customers to the fact that I have [illegible] a good [illegible] and shall endeavor, by [illegible] and strict attention to business, to merit a continuance of the favors of my honorable customers. I will not do so again if I can help it. I beg to remain, with the assurance of my highest consideration, your humble servant, [illegible]. P. S.—Any one who can get a better one in the poor house may do so."—Youth's Companion.

Guarding the Young



Aunt Minerva—Want Horace I insist, until it has passed out of sight.

The Porter Was Game.

"On a long-distance train from Philadelphia the other day," said a man recently at a dinner, "the man in the smoking car became extremely hot. He evidently suffered and finally fell sound asleep, discovering that all the ventilators were shut. Then the porter was called and ordered to open them. As he was obeying, a man who looked like a commercial traveler voiced the indignation we all felt at the fellow's carelessness.

"What d'ye mean," he said, keeping us bored here in this furnace? You ought to have opened those ventilators long ago. We'll have pneumonia after such a Turkish bath!'

"Whereupon the porter turned upon him.

"'I want you to understan' sah you'se no right to tell me what I ought to do, sah. I knows my business, sah, an I don't need no gemman from anybody sah. I may lose my job for sassin you, sah, but I can't help it, sah.'

"He paused a moment for breath, and the drummer somewhat embarrassed by the tirade, attempted to stem it.

"'Oh, stop your talking,' he said, and bring me a couple of cigars.'

"'All right, sah. What price, sah? Nobody kin tell me nothin about it, sah. I may lose my job for sassin you, sah, but I want you to understan, sah, you can't tell me what I ought to do, sah. That I don't know nothing, sah!'

"The cigars came. The drummer selected two and handed the porter a $1 bill and told him to keep the change.

"'Thanker, sah,' pocketing the money. 'I know my business, sah. Nobody kin tell me nothin about it, sah. I may lose my job for sassin you, sah, but I've got to tell you that I don't take no orders from no one in dis kyar, sah, an I want you to understan it, sah,' and he went off to his nook at the other end, muttering his protests as long as he could be heard, while the drummer got a frustless 60 cents looked helplessly after him.—New York Times.

Romance of Punkin Hollow.

The old folks had gone to bed, and Sime and Mandy were in the dim little parlor where burned a slow fire of sizzling hickory logs in the old-fashioned fireplace. The wintry blasts shook the old farmhouse, and the windows rattled and a puff of smoke now and then came down the chimney on a return trip and circled familiarly about the room, but Sime and Mandy didn't mind it. They were sitting very close together, Sime, with throbbing heart and faltering tongue, had declared himself and Mandy had listened shyly and with downcast eyes.

Sime's arm stole in a casual and apparently accidental way along the back of her chair.

"And you'll never—Mandy?"

"Yes, Sime."

It was spoken softly, but Simon heard it, and there was a sound like that of a gulp of cold mush coldly dividing viciously with the side of a chicken's throat.

Then the strange strapping man recovered himself and rose to his

Mandy, he said, with the assured bearing of a man entrusted to a thing with all its possible grimness in all the great emergencies of life, I've got to go to Chicago next Wednesday with four carloads of hogs, and we'll be married in the morning and make the trip together.—Chicago Tribune.

No Johnny In It.

Mrs. C. was visiting a neighbor, who had a bright boy of 4 years. When she was ready to go home, she asked the little fellow to recite a piece and say good-by to her.

And we will have delicious cake, added Mrs. C. to encourage the urchin.

The child had never heard corn cake called by this name and he expected something very fine, but was disappointed as he watched the cake just as his mother made corn cake. When it was ready to go in the oven Mrs. C. said:

Now, as soon as it bakes we will have our tea.

But the little fellow thought there must be a great mistake, and he could hold in no longer, so with eyes and mouth opened wide he spoke out:

"Oh, Mrs. C., you've forgot to put the Johnny in!"—Detroit Free Press.

Way Back.

Smythe—I intend Harry for the bar. Would you advise his beginning on such old works as Coke and Blackstone?

Tompkins—No, would begin by grounding him even further back.

Smythe—Indeed! In what?

Tompkins—The Ten Commandments.—Kate Field's Washington.

A Good Field.

We infer from a recent poem in which this line occurs, "I toil but in a barren field," that some of the poets are really plowing for a living. We advise all such to regard cotton only as a surplus crop, and to give their best efforts to the raising of hog and hominy.—Atlanta Constitution.

ORDERS FOR THE 24TH.

Capt. McIntyre Notified to Prepare His Command to Move On Brooklyn—A Prompt Assemblage at the Armory—Three Days' Rations and the Company Outfit—The Men Dismissed Until Further Orders.

Press dispatches which were received in this city, yesterday afternoon, announcing that the Yonkers, Mt. Vernon, Troy and other Hudson River companies had been ordered to prepare to go to Brooklyn, created no little excitement among the members of the 24th Separate Co., of this city. Up to the hour of the papers going to press, however, Capt. McIntyre had received no word from brigade head quarters at Albany, but at 4 30 o'clock he received the following dispatch:

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22, 1895
Commanding Officer 24th Separate Co., Middletown, N. Y.:

ORDER No. 1:—Make all preparations to move your command to Brooklyn. Field uniform and equipment, cooking outfit; also prepare to obtain three days' rations the moment final orders reach you.

H. C. CUSHMAN, Asst. Adj. Gen. R. S. OLIVER, Brig. Gen.

The Captain lost no time in notifying his lieutenants and non-commissioned officers, and in a few minutes the men were hurrying through the streets, dodging into stores and residences hunting for the members of their several sections and squads.

A PROMPT ASSEMBLAGE.

So thoroughly and completely was the work done that at the first call for assembly, which was sounded at 9:30 o'clock, two hours after the receipt of the telegram, every member of the company with the exception of three who were out of town, was present to answer roll call or had reported to the Captain at the armory and had been temporarily excused.

A second telegram was received about 6 o'clock, which read as follows:

Do not hold men at armory, merely take measures to assemble promptly if required.

H. C. CUSHMAN, Asst. Adj. Gen.

The men were then dismissed until 8 o'clock and were told to report to Quartermaster Schoonmaker for blankets, and to have everything in readiness to move at a moment's notice should further orders be received.

After the reception and parade, which was held in the evening, the men were dismissed until further orders, and to-day are attending to their civil duties as usual ready for a sudden call should it be issued.

The following detail remained in the armory all night in anticipation of orders: Sergt. J. F. Dugan, Corp. F. Cooper, Privates Rose, Roosa, Bannister, Vail, Paret and Bowler.

THREE DAYS' RATIONS.

Quartermaster Sergeant Schoonmaker was called upon to do some "tall hustling," and in addition to his duties in apportioning the field equipments, he ordered and had ready for delivery, rations for seventy-four men for three days. A "ration" is sufficient for three meals per day, and the following is the food the 24th will eat should they start for the "seat of war" to-day:

86	pounds	canned corn beef.
24	"	" roast beef.
110	"	boiled ham.
200	"	wheat bread.
30	"	ginger cakes.
70	"	soda crackers.
35	"	coffee.
15	"	sugar.
60	"	cheese.
10	"	salt.
1	"	pepper.
72	"	baked beans.
1	dozen	mugs mustard.
4	"	cans condensed milk.

EACH SOLDIER'S OUTFIT.

Each man is provided with a knife, fork, spoon, meat can and coffee cup, which he carries in the Merriam pack, together with his apportionment of the three days, rations. In addition to this the commissary department carries the following articles of field equipment:

2 cooking grates.
4 pans and covers.
4 kettles, 2 ladles.
1 meat saw and cleaver.
4 large knives, 1 long fork, 1 knife sharpener.
2 shovels, 1 pick, 1 hatchet.

The above articles are packed in a small chest which can easily be carried by two men.

The following is the roster of the 24th Separate Company:

Capt A. E. McIntyre; Lieuts. L. S. Stivers, J. D. Stivers, First Sergeant A. L. Decker; Quartermaster-Sergeant D. D. W. Schoonmaker; Sergeants E. C. Strack, F. B. Hathaway, J. F. Dugan, W. R. A HACKETTSTOWN MIRACLE.

AN INTERESTING RECITAL.

From the Hackettstown, N. J., Republican.

Reports from time to time reached the Republican of the remarkable cure of Mrs. Jacob Shields, the wife of our leading coal merchant, who has been suffering from a complication of diseases that nearly resulted in her death. In order to verify these statements, one of our reporters called upon Mrs. Shields and found that the reports were in no way exagarated, and that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had saved her life.

The particulars of the case, are these: "I was taken sick," said Mrs. Shields, "with typhoid fever, and was delirious for three weeks. When I recovered I suffered untold agony with my back and right limb. They felt as though they would burst. At the same time I suffered dreadfully with my kidneys. Blood would pass from me most of the time. My mother was with me and a friend of hers called and told her of the sickness they passed through at her home, and that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had been used by them, and she felt sure I would find great benefit from its use.

"A bottle was purchased, and I hadn't taken but a few doses before it began to relieve me, and in a few days some small, sharp, white stones passed from me. That evening the doctor called, and I told him that I had stopped his medicine, for he had told Mr. Shields the last time he called that he did not know what more to do for me. Some time before this, I was to the Hospital, and was brought home, as was supposed, to die. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was taken just in time. I do thank God from the bottom of my heart that he ever sent that lady here to tell me of Favorite Remedy, otherwise death would have been my doom. Since I recovered, ever so many have told me that it was a miracle I ever got well. I certainly cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

"Many persons are using it upon my recommendation, and it is doing them good. I will cheerfully answer any questions," said Mrs. Shields, "in regard to my illness, feeling that others who may be suffering will be benefited by using Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy."

No tribute could be greater than these words of Mrs. Shields, who voluntarily tells the story of her remarkable recovery.

Favorite Remedy ranks with the medical profession, as the most perfect of all blood and nerve medicines. It will cure all diseases of the skin, liver and kidneys, and the weaknesses peculiar to females, and affords great protection from attacks that originate in change of life. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, rheumatism, dyspepsia, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, gravel, diabetes and Bright's disease.

TOO FAST FOR OUTSIDERS.

Nora L, and Billy Brooks Speed Away From all Comers on Highland Avenue

Highland avenue was the scene of some lively speeding, yesterday afternoon, in which Middletown horses took the lead. Senator Richardson, of Goshen, appeared on the avenue with his handsome chestnut, "Springdale" and Amos Ryerson, of Denton, rode behind a handsome and fast black mare. The Middletowners were Robert Lemon, with his speedy "Nora L," and Will Sayer who was out with "Billy Brooks."

Springdale did not like fast company and while showing great bursts of speed, acted badly and would not "keep his feet." The Ryerson paper was a good one but was afflicted with the same complaint, while Nora L, behaved beautifully at all times. Billy Brooks started out badly, but after several brushes, settled down to business and it was nip-and-tuck on several occasions between him and Nora L.

The Electric Light Plant Sold.

The electric light plant was sold, yesterday, under foreclosure of a mortgage to secure bonds by J. L. Wiggins, referee, to the American Loan and Trust Co. The price paid was $20,000. It is said the plant cost $80,000.

The new owners will overhaul the plant and propose to offer inducements for an increased patronage.

Mr. J. V. Z. Anthony, who has been the superintendent of the plant, will retain his position.

DAVID CHRISTIE MURRAY.

The English Novelist Makes a Deep Impression as a Lecturer.

David Christie Murray, who lectures in this city, to-morrow evening, delivered his first lecture in this country in Boston, Oct. 24th. The Boston Traveler, very high authority on such matters, says of the lecture:

David Christie Murray, the distinguished English novelist, journalist, and man of the world, made his first bow to an American audience at the Association Hall, last night, and to say that he made a deep and delightful impression is to put it mildly. The hour and a half that he occupied to pour forth his rich flood of wit, philosophy, anecdote, imitation, and word-painting, glided away as if by magic to the cultured company present. Mr. Murray has a most attractive presence, a voice attuned to every phase of the emotions, and a graphic and eloquent style of speech that is most persuasive.

MONTGOMERY.

The Coming Town Meeting—Sent Up for Ten Days — Chicken Thieves May Get More Punishment—Accident to a Horse.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Get ready for town meeting. The collector leads the ticket in this town, although the fight will be over the excise commissioner.

—The Rev. Mr. Earl, a former pastor of the M. E. Church here, but now of Fishkill, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Hawxhusrt on Sunday, and delivered a very touching and eloquent sermon.

—Miss Annabelle McClung, of Little Britain, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Georgie B. Gillespie at her home on Union street.

—A tramp, who wandered in town on Wednesday, while intoxicated, was arrested by Officer Pitts and sent to Goshen jail for ten days.

—It is understood here that the chicken thieves were only punished by Newburgh's Recorder, for selling stolen goods in that city. If so, when their terms of imprisonment expire, their victims may come forward and prefer charges against them. I also understand that two or three farmers have been paid for goods stolen from them, and that Mr. Smith had been offered money not to appear against the miscreants. Mr. Smith refused the hush money, much to his credit.

—John Senior, while out driving the other night, met with a misfortune, the horse he was driving, breaking one of the bones in a leg.

The cutter, steea and sleigh-bells,
Go whizzing by the door,
It makes one think with pleasure,
That Montgomery lives once more.

A COMMON QUESTION.

WHERE MAY WOMEN GO FOR HELP?

How Many American Women Have Asked This Question of Themselves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

You may call it dangerous modesty if you will. It is in woman's heart, and is part of woman's nature.

She shrinks from telling her physical troubles to men.

During the past 20 years thousands of women throughout the world have written in womanly confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and laid bare the tale of misery they endured.

They wrote freely, knowing that their letters went direct to the hands of a woman who not alone understood their sufferings but whose heart was full of sympathy with them. The experience of thousands has proved how carefully their letters were studied, and how true and sure came the answer and helpfulness.

You may be suffering daily when you need not. You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only a woman can give.

A young lady from Boston writes to a friend, saying:—"They said I was consumptive, sent me away, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, no tonics. Just think of it! One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Lydia E. Pinkham. I began using what it said to me, so I wrote her, got a lovely reply. She told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health." Some good thing is waiting for you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved more female suffering than anything in the world.

THRALL HOSPITAL.

Report for the Quarter Ending Dec. 31

The Secretary of the Board of Managers of Thrall Hospital reports that for the quarter ending Dec. 31st, thirty-four patients were treated in the hospital, of whom twenty-seven were pay patients, one a half-price patient and six charity patients. Twenty-five patients were discharged, three died and six remained in the hospital at the end of the quarter.

During the quarter the town bed was occupied for thirty-four days and the young ladies' auxiliary bed for twenty-nine days.

A Great Battle.

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to their grave.
